Designated Reach:

January 19, 1981. From the confluence with the Klamath River to 100 yards below Lewiston Dam. The North Fork from the Trinity River confluence to the southern boundary of the Salmon-Trinity Primitive Area. The South Fork from the Trinity River confluence to the California State Highway 36 bridge crossing. The New River from the Trinity River confluence to the Salmon-Trinity Primitive Area.

Classification/Mileage: Wild — 44.0 miles; Scenic — 39.0 miles; Recreation — 120.0 miles; Total — 203.0 miles.

This major tributary of California's Klamath River is located in heavily forested mountainous terrain. The Trinity is noted for its salmon and steelhead fishery resources as well as its attraction to rafters, kayakers and canoers. The North and South Forks of the Trinity and the New River are included.
