MULTI-FAMILY DHW REFERENCE SYSTEM: Should multi-family residential building efficiency requirements be based on the same DHW efficiency as a single-family structure (as in the current and '98 Standards)? Multi-family buildings often use more efficient central DHW systems (at least more efficient as calculated using current modeling rules). Perhaps projects with individual water heaters should be compared to a budget based on individual water heaters, and projects with central DHW systems should be compared to a budget based on central DHW.
